CHARLIE PILGRIM

(OR A BEGINNER'S
GUIDE TO TIME TRAVEL)

Writer
Sam O'Sullivan

Director
Jena Prince

Have you ever wanted to change the past?
Charlie Pilgrim has. And with the prototype of her time machine ready for a test run, she hopes to get her chance.

Unfortunately, starting up the machine has accidentally created a closed time loop that adds a new Charlie every twenty-four hours. With the population rising and group dynamics coming into play, things go from Interstellar to Lord of the Flies pretty fast. To save her soul, and prevent the universe collapsing under the weight of a mounting series of mindbending paradoxes, Charlie is forced to do battle with herself.

The ATYP Foundation Commissions invest in work for young people to perform. Developed by ATYP and published by Playlab, we are creating a canon of work for young actors aged between 10 and 13. This is your chance to see this exciting new Australian work before it goes on to be performed by schools and youth theatres around the country.
